VOTE.

VOTE RIGHT.

Let nothing keep you from going to the polls.

Greece does not believe she is throwing her fat in the fire by joining the Allies.

You can promote your individual interests by laying aside your personal business sufficiently long next Tuesday to go to the polls.

The Advertiser has it upon the best authority that the people of Charleston, particularly the men who voted for Mr. Cooper, are rallying to the support of Governor Manning.

Owing to the high price of flour, some city bakers are reducing the weight of their loaves of bread, but, unfortunately, the appetites of consumers cannot be reduced proportionately.

Woodrow Wilson is being referred to by people all over the country as "the next president." But South Carolinians, without relaxing their interest in national affairs, are most interested at this juncture in who'll be "the next governor."

The commission appointed to revise the ritual of one of the leading protestant denominations has decided to eliminate the word "obey" from the marriage ceremony. Might as well, unless it be made to apply to the male portion of the "contracting parties," instead of the female portion.

How Would You Have State Governed?

Your vote next Tuesday will show not so much what man you want to be governor of South Carolina as it will show in what manner you desire to see the State governed. The people had four years of Governor Blease's administration and they have had nearly two years of Governor Manning. Now which of the two gave the people the most satisfactory administration? Place their records side by side and then choose by your vote in what manner you prefer to have the affairs of government administered for the next two years.

We do not believe a majority of the people of South Carolina desire to see a repetition of 1911, 1912, 1913 and 1914.

Criminals Will be Set Free.

It is still fresh in the minds of the people of South Carolina how verdicts of honest jurors and sentences of the courts were set at naught during the four years prior to Governor Manning's administration. Something like 1,500 criminals were given their liberty during that time, and if Ex. Gov. Blease is elected to a third term it is not reasonable to expect a return of this horrible condition of affairs?

That criminals and the criminal class over the State very earnestly desire Mr. Blease's election is proven by an incident which occurred in this county on the day of the first primary. As a representative citizen of this county went to the polls last Tuesday, traveling the road where convicts were working, two members of the chain-gang whom he knew appealed to him to vote for Mr. Blease. They said, in effect: "If Mr. Blease is elected we can get a pardon. Some white men already have the money waiting for him to be elected governor." These two convicts asked two other men the same day to vote for Mr. Blease, giving the same reason.

This incident reveals, in advance, the condition that will prevail for the next two years, if Mr. Blease is elected. Criminals who were regularly tried and convicted by honest jurors at considerable expense to the taxpayers will be set free to resume their criminal course, and the criminal class all over the State will be made bold by believing that they have a friend at the seat of government who will give them their liberty if caught in the meshes of the law.

We have a law providing jail or chain-gang sentence for blind tigers, without alternative of fine, and every unprejudiced man must admit that this law now has a deterrent effect, but if Mr. Blease is elected blind tigers will feel assured that he will pardon them when convicted, which will practically nullify this very effective law.

Mr. Cooper's Manly Statement.

As soon as the result of the first primary became sufficiently known to determine who would be in the second race for governor, the Hon. R. A. Cooper issued a strong and manly statement to the effect that he would give his undivided support to Governor Manning. The position which Mr. Cooper has taken has strengthened him with a large number of people.

Instead of sulking in his tent or remaining neutral, Mr. Cooper has allied himself with the people who desire to see law and order prevail in South Carolina, and we confidently believe that the vast majority of Mr. Cooper's friends will follow his very worthy example. We believe they will go to the polls and cast their ballots for the Hon. Richard I. Manning for governor.

Vote Next Tuesday.

Unless providentially kept away from the polls, every voter who has enrolled his name for the Democratic primary in Edgefield county should vote next Tuesday. It is a duty that every white man owes society and the State. No patriotic citizen will allow private business to keep him from the polls. He should make every reasonable sacrifice for the public good, especially when South Carolina is facing so grave a crisis.

Go to the polls next Tuesday and let your ballot be on the side of good government, law and order. Your vote, or your failure to vote, will have its weight in determining whether South Carolina will be properly or improperly governed for the next two years. Not only go to the polls yourself but urge upon your neighbor the necessity of his doing likewise. If all of the citizens of South Carolina who stand for good government, law and order, will vote next Tuesday, IT IS PRACTICALLY CERTAIN that South Carolina will be properly governed for the next two years.

Do not disregard this appeal to YOU to DO YOUR FULL DUTY next Tuesday.

Retaliatory Measure Adopted.

Congress has done within the past few days what it should have done several months ago, and that was to enact a retaliatory measure striking at the allied blacklist and British interference with American mails. England's treatment of America and American interests has not been altogether blameless and it has appeared at times that those in authority in this country have been rather too slow in calling her to account. This is especially true of the blacklisting of certain American exporters and the seizure of United States mails.

However, congress has finally acted in a way that will lead to a change of policy on the part of the British government. The act just passed gives the president the power to "deny the use of mails, express, telegraph, wireless and cable facilities to citizens of nations which do not accord the Americans all facilities of commerce." It also vests the president with the power to withhold clearance to all vessels that discriminate against American shippers.

The enforcement of this act will make England feel the effects of the policy adopted some months ago that has worked a hardship on American interests. It is merely paying her in her own coin.

Interested Outsiders Looking On.

Race track gamblers in the North and distillers who compose the wholesale liquor trust will as eagerly await telegraphic news from the South Carolina election next Tuesday as will any interested citizen in this State.

The horse racers who have been outlawed in all except two or three States would like to see the election of Mr. Blease so they can resume their race meet near Charleston in violation of the laws of South Carolina. These parasites have made no attempt to conduct the races since Governor Manning went into office. The why is too evident to state.

The wholesale liquor dealers are hoping that Mr. Blease will win in order that blind tigers over the State, especially in the cities, may resume business. The return of blind tigers means increased shipments of whiskey into the State by the liquor dealers of other States.

Will your vote be on the side of the race track gamblers and liquor dealers or will it be on the side of continued enforcement of the laws of the State? We believe a majority of the people of South Carolina stand for the continued enforcement of the laws.

Benefactors of the Farm.

The young men on farms to-day have many worthy examples among those who have devoted their lives unselfishly to make farming more profitable and home life more enjoyable. Here in the Southwest we have many whose life work and achievements for the men who toil will live after them.

We have reached a time in our civilization that we should not confine our examples of character to men in public life, to statesmen, writers, warriors, etc. As a nation that loves peace and prosperity we should strive to emulate the worthy characters that make life's burdens easier. The men who make this world a better place to live by breeding plants and animals, those who help the poor get homes and give their lives for the education and enlightenment of their fellow-citizens, should be honored.

We want our young men and our young women to remember those who make the soil more productive and the people who live after them to have more of the comforts and conveniences of life.

We must live from the soil. Those who till the soil must produce the food and clothing for the people of this country. Let those who deserve it be honored. This will be an incentive for young people to be "victors of peace" and benefactors of the farm.—Farm and Ranch.

Card of Thanks.

I take this means of thanking my friends for their very generous support in the first primary and very earnestly solicit a continuance of this support for the second election. If elected I will further show my appreciation to the people by making them a faithful servant.

James DeVore.

Card of Thanks.

I desire to express to my friends and supporters throughout the county my sincere gratitude for the generous vote given me in the first primary and solicit a continuance of that support for the second election, pledging the best service of my life if elected.

J. O. Herin.

Card of Thanks.

I take this means of expressing my profound appreciation for the support given me in the past primary, and to thank the people generally for their hearty welcome at every turn of the campaign.

The expressions and experiences of the campaign have been pleasing as well as profitable, and unless an unknown reason presents itself I will be before the people again asking their suffrage.

W. M. Wright.

Card of Thanks.

Please allow me space in your paper to express to my neighbors and friends my appreciation for the vote I received in the recent primary. Though defeated I am not the least sore. My opponents all treated me in a straightforward gentlemanly way. My appreciation to the people for their kindness during the campaign is beyond my expression.

If I know my own heart I love the people of Edgefield. Better people never lived.

James M. Bell.

Card of Thanks.

I wish to express my thanks to the people of Edgefield county for their consideration and many courtesies extended me during the campaign. I have been informed since the election that the Blease issue was used against me, it being said that I was a Blease man. This was a mistake, as I am not and never have been. However, I am not one of those who think it a reflection on a man's character to be a Blease man. This is a free country and every one has a right to vote for the man of his choice. I supported Cooper in the first election and will now support Manning.
